

The Indiana Telephone Privacy Law is one of the most effective laws that have been enacted by this state. I understand the the FCC is considering adopting a federal regulation that is less restrictive than Indiana's. I suggest that you either adopt a standard similar to the state of Indiana or allow states with more restrictive standards to maintain their laws.